15 - 19
November
2020

With Dorothy E. Siminovitch, PhD, MCC (Chair)
and Gila Şeritçioğlu, MA, MCC (Faculty)
Gestalt Center for Coaching Faculty

Dear Colleagues,

We welcome you to Gestalt GroupWorks 2020. In our upcoming virtual workshop, our focus is on supporting you to use yourself as group & team leader/facilitator(s). This workshop will support you, in using gestalt theory and method to become effective facilitators of group/team process in various stages of development and tasks.

Our Focus

Our operating assumption about organizations are evolving and we are rediscovering organizations as relational processes rather than mechanical systems. Becoming a high performance team is even more challenging in today's world where performance is no longer "just" a transactional process and requires relational skills, skilful use of self, positive social intelligence and interpersonal resonance. Such a shift calls for a new approach for creating and sustaining high performance teams using coaching as a development methodology. Therefore, in this highly practical programme, we will be addressing coaching in a high performance team setting with a relational focus.

In this training, we invite you to:

- Be aware of how you work with group dynamics
- Intervene from your inside-out: Bring your Presence and trustworthy use of self
- Strengthen your intervention & process skills
- Practice the art of giving/receiving feedback across multiple levels of system
